

Advancing New Type People-Centred Urbanisation

HUANG Zuhui

Abstract

The key to promoting the integrated development of urban and rural areas at the county level and advancing new type people-centred urbanisation is to enhance the comprehensive carrying capacity and governance capacity of counties, promote the convergence and complementarity of functions of counties, towns and villages, optimise the allocation of resource endowments, and upgrade industrial structure and spatial layout. This report reviews and expounds the process and characteristics of urbanisation in China, clarifies the connotations of urbanisation, and proposes four approaches to advancing new type people-centred urbanisation.
